A number of prominent residents of Glendale are present at the hearing. Mayor Spencer Robinson, City Manager W. H. The operation of the bus line as it will affect the city of Los Angeles is being outlined by C. D. Gulick, traffic expert for the city of Glendale.

Never Sued, Never Worried Over Financial Affairs, Never Raised His Hand in Anger, Outside of That This Man Lived Normal Life

When William H. Downing was interviewed by a reporter for The Glendale Evening News last July, he declared:

"I have never been sued in my life. Nor have I had an officer put his hand on my shoulder and say, 'I want you.' I have never worried over financial affairs, nor, since I was a young man, have I ever raised my hand in anger against my fellow man. Outside of that, I have lived the life of the average man. Oh, yes, I like good-looking women. I never knew a sailor yet that wouldn't kiss a pretty girl every chance he got. I don't think a man ever gets old as long as he likes the ladies."

G LENDALE'S well known centenarian is dead!

William Henry Downing passed away March 1, 1922, at a rest home here, after having celebrated his 100th birthday, Wednesday, July 13, 1921. He is survived by a son, Frank Downing, and a grandson, Dr. F. E. Morgan of Los Angeles.

Funeral services and interment will be at Santa Cruz, Cal., his former home. The Jewel City Undertaking company is in charge of ar-

"Daddy" Downing, as he was affectionately known by a large circle of Glendale friends, told those who attended his birthday party last year a story replete with thrills of a lifetime's adventures from the days when Indians roamed, slaves were sold, California sold to the United States, gold hunted by hundreds of '49ers, the Civil war fought, the Philippine Islands taken, the world war won by the allies.

Tries Luck Ashore

Some few years after starting his life as a sailor, Downing decided to try his luck, ashore. At the age of 20 he apprenticed himself out as a carpenter. From 6 to 6 in the summer and from 7 till dark in the winter did he work, six days a week. And on Sundays did he lie abed until the sun was high in the heavens? He did not. #### Remarkable Story Revealed by Connecticut State Board Battling Tuberculosis

By E. M. ALLENDER Written for International News Service HARTFORD, Conn., March 2 .-Persons who are accustomed to shiver at the thought of a cold shower, even in a heated bathroom; mothers who "bundle up" their children when sending them forth into the crisp winter air; geographers who write in their school books that people in the frigid climates require warmer clothing than the denizens of the tropics, prepare to shiver. That clothing is "pretty much of a habit" is the contention of the Connecticut tuberculosis commission, and to illustrate and prove its claim the commission recently brought four near-naked kiddies to the annual state industrial exhibition in this city, the youngsters romping through the snow-covered streets of the city, exciting awe and amazement as they trotted along with no clothing but abbreviated trunks and sandals.

> Louis N. Parker, the dramatist who wrote the play, wove a "plot" that holds the attention to the last moments of the picture. It is not an historical play in any sense. But it indicates the times in which Disraeli lived, and shows clearly the bitter opposition the great English statesman had to contend with in his battle for the highest office within the gift of his queen. The play was written with Mr. Arliss in mind. And Mr. Arlss has costumed his Disraeli with fidelity to the great statesman, and the "make-up" is quite striking.

The Glendale De Luxe Auto Top Company, located at 120 South Maryland avenue, is one of the enterprising new firms of the city with Harry Balestier and Harold DuBols, proprietors. Everything in the auto trimming line is done at this shop, although they are specializing on California tops.

Ling on California tops.

Linguistic work, plate glass side curtains, seat covers, remodelling, recovering and allied lines are personally attended to by Messrs, Balestier and DuBois who have built up a healthy business since opening on October 1 of last year.

"Automobile owners will find our prices reasonable," said Mr. Balestier today, in discussing the kind of work which they turn out. "And it will pay the owner of a car that is in need of a new top to have us do the work now because of the value it adds to the selling price of an otherwise mechanically perfect machine.

"Then, too, there is the matter of pride entering into a classy California top that makes the motorist feel he is one of the crowd. All of our work is guaranteed to give satisfaction, because it is done under our personal supervision here in Glendale where we can give the estimates, ideas and incorporate the desires of the owner in what might otherwise be a stock job by some disinterested concern."
